in action!

Experience the fun of science, technology, engineering and math!

This fall, YWCA Green Bay-De Pere will launch TechGYRLS® for sixth-grade girls with STEM interests (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math), and this summer we are partnering with EAA to offer high school girls the opportunity to attend the Women Soar You Soar program, July 26-29, in Oshkosh!

Women Soar You Soar is three days of empowerment, inspiration and fun for girls grades 9-12. Girls will meet more than 20 women, from engineers to fighter pilots, working in a variety of aviation and aerospace fields. Activities include flight simulation, workshops, career explorations, and mentor sessions.

Both Women Soar You Soar and TechGYRLS® will help teen and pre-teen girls discover technical/non-traditional careers that offer higher wages and career advancement.

Accommodations

Overnight accommodations will be provided by the University of Wisconsin – Oshkosh. Girls are supervised by adults and UW-O students. Transportation to the program, departing from and returning to the YWCA in downtown Green Bay is included.

Registration

The registration fee is $50, but scholarships are available to the first 15 girls who have an interest in aviation and the STEM areas listed above. Registration includes programs, meals, lodging, transportation and Monday and Tuesday admittance to EAA Airventure.

Space is very limited, so register today!

Deadline: Friday, July 17.
